RULES FOR NALA COMPETITIONS.

1. ELIGIBILITY.

Only Agility Link subscribers are eligible to have scores recorded for InterClub or Individual Dog Competition. Agility Link subscribers may have scores recorded for any dog they handle. Clubs may compete in any InterClub competition offered by NALA. If Clubs wish to use a Novelty name they must also include part of the Club name.

2. JUDGING.

Any person knowledgeable of agility rules may act as a judge. Two judges may officiate, one judge competing under the other judge. Care must be taken to provide consistent judging. All judging in N.Z. will be based on the current acceptable standards. Exceptions are:

- a) Weave poles: no faults or refusals except for handling, but they must be correctly negotiated.
  - b) Crossover: Judging level to be mentioned on the plan.
  - c) Long jump: if poles on the corners of the long jump appear on the plan they should be used.
  - d) There is no SCT or MCT.
  - e) The position on the table is a DOWN, unless otherwise specified.
- 2017: Aframe up contacts are not to be judged.

3. COURSE PLANS:

Any subscriber is welcome to submit a course plan, by Course designer, or clearly drawn to scale on an A4 sheet. The ring size for agility is 30m x 40m, and for rallyO is 20 x20m maxm for every month.

4. COURSE LENGTH, MEASUREMENTS AND TIMING.

When setting up the course, distances must be checked with a meter wheel, following the path laid out on the plan. The total length of the course must coincide with that stated in the plan, margin of error is 1m. Where specific instructions are included on the plan these must be adhered to. The course layout should be checked so that where the plan shows jumps in a straight line or on angles this is done. Check grids and line up obstacles along a grid, so that the character of the course is adhered to.

Electronic timers or an accurate stop-watch must be used, with times being recorded to 100ths of a second.

5. SCORING AND RESULTS. (Unless specified otherwise with the Course Brief)

The club will submit the score of each competitor's FIRST run over the course. No previous practice over that particular course is allowed. The competitor's score consists of the time taken to run the course plus any faults caused by Course Faults. A competitor who has NO Course Faults will receive a bonus by having 5 secs. subtracted from the running time.

The club co-ordinator must enter results (agility and flygility) on the website or forward results to reach the AGILITY LINK Results Recorder before the last day of the month of running. Late results or results from members who are not financial, will not be published or credited.

6. OBSTACLE STANDARDS.

The Club should use its own equipment. All obstacles must be of safe construction. Where levels of height or length may differ, in Agility

Link competitions the obstacles should be set at their maximum height/length.

7. COMPETITION

a) Inter Club.

A club's score in any month will be the sum of the scores of that club's three best performers for that month. A club will be credited with points for that month equal to the place it gains, e.g. The club that achieves 1st Place is credited with 1 point, the 2nd club 2 points, etc.

Top Club Award will go to the club with the lowest total after adding together that club's EIGHT lowest scores. If, finally, two clubs are on the same aggregate score the club with the lower team aggregate for the LAST month they both competed together, will have preference.

DIVISIONS:

There will be four Divisions. Divisions 1,2 and 3 will consist of 11 teams each, with division 4 containing the remaining teams. All new clubs will start in the fourth division. The first two Clubs in each division will be automatically promoted to the next division. The last two clubs in each division will automatically be relegated to the lower division. In the event of any team withdrawals/amalgamations, the results recorder may instigate additional promotions/relegations to ensure the size of divisions 1,2 and 3 is maintained as stated previously.

Clubs may organise more than one team but the Club's second or third team must start in the fourth division, and handlers/dogs will run for the same team all year.

Dogs in Teams. Where a Club has more than one Team in the competition, Senior dogs (at NZKC Championship level) or those with a clear round in ADX advanced must be included in the top team (this applies at the beginning of the year when Teams are first set up). New members (except for Senior dogs or dogs with a clear round in ADX advanced ) may be added to any Club team. NALA members who move during a competition year may have their score credited to whichever Club they choose.

(b) Individual Dog.

The same principle will apply as for Inter Club. Any member of NALA may compete in the monthly competitor, under the one subscription, with more than one dog. Awards will be given to the first 10% (approx) of dogs.

AGILITY LINK may, from time to time, offer other forms of competition, depending on sponsorship, and interest.

8. CLASSES AND ELIGIBILITY.

Courses for May, August and December will contain NO contact obstacles and will be known as Jumpers courses. All dogs may compete.

NALA LIBRARY.

Janetta McKechnie recently borrowed some DVDs from NALA and here are her comments:

Rachel Sanders, Contacts: Bridging the Gap Between Training & Competition. DVD

I found many good training techniques from this video. Great information on training contacts / waits. It is useful for my dogs' contacts and for my lead-out at the start line. We have been doing a lot of release work on the flat in different parks, and outside the class or competition ring, and release to obstacles at home backyard. But the moment we are inside the ring one dog is too excited to wait at start line and contacts. This video covers many different types of handling situations for the "release work" on the contacts. It is well presented in a dynamic manner, and has inspired me to learn and practice further.

Susan Salo, Foundation Jumping, 4-DVD Set

I wanted to watch these videos partly because one of my dog recently has had a leg muscle injury (not from agility), but mainly because one of my dog has recently been knocking bars (no health problem; though could be my problem – giving late cues, etc.) I wish we had started this system - foundation jumping - when they were still young to lay down proper jumping skills. Anyway after more than 2 years doing agility, I thought a grid work would help my dogs to focus on jumping path, distance, take-off point, weight transfer, etc, that may improve their jumping efficiency and prevent potential injuries.

Great introduction and clear explanation of multiple training drills; detailed instructions on footwork, while handling the over jumps with many changes of direction (although I have not seen Greg's previous Foundation dvd). I like the concept about the blind cross body line, that is like an imaginary extension of the arm, that the dog follows, in order to be rewarded in front of the handler. I find this video very useful with countless drills to practice on my backyard, I just need to find time.

Susan Garrett, Crate Games for Self-Control and Motivation, Dvd.

Since I have never used crates for my dogs – and they are no puppies anymore, I thought it is too late to use crate. About a year ago on YouTube someone referred to crate games trying to improve their dog motivation and focus for obedience heelwork. Since then I have been searching for this Dvd. The crate games principles are excellent, as you can transfer your dog's crate control to many different activities and locations. For example, the waiting dog that stays down in the place / mat /crate, while I train another, builds up his/her excitement and motivation for his/her training turn. Also crate games and collar grab are great way to add motivation to an agility obstacle.

ENJOYING A SPORT WITH GOOD GRACE.

By Raewyn Saville.

It has always been a concern to me that some people invest hobby sport with unrealistic expectations and with a dramatic reflection on every act that has or has not happened during their participation. Do you know what I mean?

For myself I enjoy training dogs and then taking them to a competition and seeing whether the training 'worked' or not. I actually don't care what sort of dog sport it is. It could be sledding for all I care.

The biggest thrill I ever had as a young person was getting my father's approval of my Labrador's maiden run at duck shooting opening. I had trained her so hard. I had gun proofed her, I had taught her to hunt on the water to find dummy ducks stuck under blackberry bushes. I had hunted her on land for old frozen duck wings. I had it covered. Then the nerves as the first ducks fell on the pond and into the swamp. She was keen and wanted to go, but of course bird collection happens later. After an hour or so someone dropped a duck wounded and it swam under the blackberries on the far edge of the pond. Dad said I could let my lab Trisha go to see if she could find it. She swam straight out to the right place went under the blackberries and swam around trying to get up the bank above the blackberries but it was too steep. Dad said the bird would be in a hole under the edge of the pond and the dog may need to stick her head under the water to see where the hole was. Anyway my dog was whistled back and came. Dad said 'good effort'. When she got back, Trisha dog took off around the perimeter of the pond and up through the blackberries at the top of the bank where the bird went down. Dad said 'whistle her back she will spoil the shooting moving the scrub like that'. I tried and she wouldn't come. Ten minutes later she came into sight with struggling bird in her mouth. Leapt into the water and swam back to the maimai. I was ever so proud.

The point of that rambling essay was that if you put the training in and understand everything you are training for and build the bond with your dog, it will do whatever you want it to do.

Mistakes in Agility and Flygility are seldom the fault of the dog including fallen rails, slow runs, incomplete send-always bad and late recalls. So it sends me quite demented when I hear someone berating their dog for whatever its perceived misdemeanour might have been. I know when something goes wrong with a run that either I haven't ever thought to train for that kind of course layout or I almost forgot where I was going and sent the dog to the equipment incorrectly. I am always happy with what my dog gives me because it is giving me back exactly what I taught it to do. So sometimes it is 'back to the drawing board'.

Some folk get so wound up about their chosen leisure sport that they blame the organisation, the weather, fellow competitors, judges, the caterer, you name it they will find a way to turn a great fun experience with their dog into a drama of untold proportions. It is all about them. Never mind that there were a whole raft of people who nailed the thing and how about watching how fantastic some of those runs were.

I get a great kick out of watching the best dogs doing Flygility. I get a wonderful kick from seeing dogs and people I have trained doing really good work at Agility and Flygility. I like to see the smile on their faces and I love to tell them how well they did. If they haven't done so well I like to weigh it against where they were when they started training. For example, a very nervous person who totally lacked confidence and would find it impossible to stand up and speak to a crowd of three, goes out shaking like a leaf and achieves a full round with faults. Two months previously it would have been impossible. Now they have achieved.

Winning and losing, titles and kudos are not half as important as meeting own goals. Stated goals such as achieving a full Flygility send-away and the dog going straight back to the handler is just fine by me. I encourage it. Not everybody is going to be holding a Winner ribbon at the end of the day. Having a good time is actually what it is about. Being ultra competitive and snappy about it or treating other people badly, or making loud excuses for a lack of performance is just so unnecessary and often rains on other people's parades.

It isn't just our sports that suffer from this stupid overzealous competitiveness, it crosses over into all the sports you can name that are done as a leisure and fitness activity. Some will say it is just how some people are, and that's true. But it really amounts to very bad manners.

My day out with my dogs at Flygility is enhanced by my mates getting ribbons and prizes. If I am in that hey fantastic. If not hey back to the drawing board as my 'own goals' need looking at.

Speaking of own goals, Debbie Trimbach and I have been slaving away at Flygility courses for NALA for three years and we would like to make the 2017/18 year our final one.

We are happy to step down sooner if some keen person/people would like the job. Having done it as a team effort, I would recommend that future people do it as a group or team as it makes it easier to stay motivated.

A whole club could participate with one person sending in the information. If you had five people on the case then that would mean they each did two articles and courses per year and the organiser did an extra one. We have grown with this job and while we have received some stick for courses unliked by others, we have laughed about it.

Never can be bothered with those who use their mouth and don't get involved with making things better or participating in full. I make a point of never criticising those who are doing the job unless I am prepared to get in there and do it myself. We are happy to mentor or help work others into the position over a period of time. If everyone did just a couple of years it would add so much to the fun and width of experience for all. Think about it please.
