LONG LIVE NALA!!

Now that I am unable to participate fully in Agility Competitions (age and all that ) NALA IS A LIFE LINE to the rest of the Dog World. The fact that it is run at the Club makes things so much easier to continue participation.

Also there is something for everyone. What show would have Agility, Games, Juniors and Veterans and Rally-O and Flygility, all one a ground just around the corner from home.

South Rangitikei was introduced to N.A.L.A in the early days and in spite of only being a small club has managed to maintain its membership to today. I for one look forward to getting the magazine. I personally enjoyed my time as the Flygility rep, collating the results and penning the report was a pleasure and kept my brain working after retirement. Julia Crouch

NALA LIBRARY.

We have a great collection of books and DVDs in the NALA library.

If you are new to agility competitions, why not borrow the book "Course Analysis for Agility Handlers Stuart Mah".

Do you have problems getting nervous before your runs and need some help quelling those nerves (especially with Team trials and NZDAC coming up)? Get the book by Christine Smith, "Your Secret Coach".

Those with agility issues related to their dogs general behaviour could read "Ruff Love" by Susan Garrett. It has some great ideas for developing rules and boundaries for dogs who get too much for doing too little and need some balance. DVD "In FOCUS Crying for Control" is also worth a watch.

If you want to work on your dog's jumping

we have a number of books and DVDs to help with that. Try "The Clothier Natural Jumping Method", by Suzanne Clothier, "Jumping from A to Z" by Christine Zink. DVD Success with One Jump 2-DVD Set, Foundation Jumping 4-DVD Set, Foundation Training for Agility 3-DVD Set, or "Developing Jumping Skills" by Linda Mecklenberg.

NEW puppy? Read "Building Blocks for Performance" or "Shaping Success" by Susan Garrett or "Excellerated Learning" by Pamela Reid. On VHS - Puppy Love - Raise your dog the Clicker way. DVD "Agility Foundation Training" and "Crate Games for Self-Contro I& Motivation"

We also have a range of Greg Derrett video and DVDs.

FLYGILITY Standard course.

STANDARD FLYGILITY COURSE
S029 - Decemeber 2016
Raewyn Saville

WHY WOULD YOU NOT DO FLYGILITY?

By Raewyn Saville

Because my greatest attribute in dog training seems to be to introduce people to the sport of Agility, I have to think of ways to get inexperienced handlers to engage with the dog in simple exercises that don't involve too much fancy movement or instruction and basically allow the dog to be motivated and use it's own natural speed and ability to achieve Agility equipment. The vast majority of people who come to learn Agility are physically unfit, and lack almost all the skills needed to do the Sport.

If you send the people off to do Obedience or Canine Good Citizen or Rally O they just don't understand what the tie-up is between a well behaved dog and an Agility Course, or that they might need some body language and handling skills and a bond between them and the dog, all of which the above activities would help them with. BUT they want to do Agility.

Everyone who comes to me has to do at least one one on one to see how much skill they have as a team if any. Most , not much. Even people who tell me it is their fourth or fifth dog still don't behave in a way that I would want to come to them or sit by them or adore them if I

To keep everyone engaged and the Agility target in sight, I finish each class with a set of tunnel exercises and sometimes hurdles to be done in a cavalletti fashion.

This class of basic commands is always the same every week - week in week out new dogs join and learn the exercises and then get good enough to move on. When a dog/handler team has achieved at this level then we want to know if the dog will run away and come back in a direct line.

At our club we call this 'Sprints' were the dog. So they have to attend a basic commands course with me and the dogs have to be able to work over the distraction of other dogs running loose as well. To keep everyone engaged and the Agility target in sight, I finish each class with a set of tunnel exercises and sometimes hurdles to be done in a cavalletti fashion. This class of basic commands is always the same every week week in week out new dogs join and learn the exercises and then get good enough to move on. When a dog/handler team has achieved at this level then we want to know if the dog will run away and come back in a direct line. At our club we call this 'Sprints' .

A sprint is a fifty meter send away to a white bucket with either a piece of food on top or a ball or toy and a direct fifty meter recall. Fastest dog yet did 100 meters in 9.5seconds. We compete (timed with the clock) with Sprints and the newer people often have dogs faster than some of us old hands. When their dog is averaging under 12seconds(maxi med) or under 14 seconds (mini micro) then we put it the handicaps. Handicap no. 1 is a fly hurdle right on the start finish line. Once they average under the times again then handicap 2 which is another flyhurdle over five meters away. Again when they average under their time then the tunnel goes in the middle, then the regular hurdles etc. I call this kind of work 'capturing speed'.

The dog learns to work independently, it learns to stay fast. It learns there is a reward at the end of the up section so sendaways become a doddle and it learns there is a game or reward at the handler end. It learns that it doesn't matter about other dogs around the course or cars coming and going, it learns to concentrate on the game.

So my new people are now ready to do something real and they want agility. Oh dear. Why. Let's have a look at Flygility. I usually have to hard sell Flygility. I will take our best agility performers and let the other learners see them doing Flygility. Why are these dogs so good at looping off and doing the equipment in agility? because they have learnt confidence and speed doing Flygility. I like to encourage learners to do both. My Agility Beginners class involves learning each piece of equipment rather than learning courses. New people cannot cope with learning how to teach their dogs a low A frame and learning how to handle their body language approaching an A frame in a course, all at the same time. Because we learn all the equipment on low, I am comfortable with dogs 12 months learning the equipment in this way. They learn open run through weaves. They learn dogwalk, low seesaw, crossover, and all the equipment including wing jumps, as individual things. They will still be competing in Sprints and they should be doing Flygility.

What I get from flygility is the enthusiasm and fun that young dogs need to succeed in the greater sport of Agllity. Often beginner Agility handlers struggle to 'play' with their dogs. Flygility is enforced play for the dog, whether or not the owner wants to play. I like doing voice restrained starts, it takes some practice. I like to see the dogs starting to learn changes in direction and following the equipment in front of them. I like to move on from straight courses in practice sessions quickly with new people so that they can learn the body language they need to steer their dog from one turn to the next. I like to experiment with longer courses, and the fun thing of going up one side to the box and back down another set of equipment just for the heck of it.

Learning to do their own thing in two or three lanes. Set up one lane advanced one lane Senior , one lane intermediate and one lane

Beginner and run them all together. Everyone starts on Beginner Intermediate and if they get it right their next start is up one level. Everyone starts together 321 go.

Incredible seeing the Advanced dogs pick up speed because the dogs on the easier courses are beating them.

To me this is training to succeed. Everyone can run on mini micro as far as I am concerned, I want consistent reliable targeted performance. Whats not to like about Flygility? Then I enrol them in NALA and they get to play in the big kids world.

They generally want to do the Flygility challenge even when they can't and why not. I encourage new Nala members to find a part of the Agility course that they understand, rather than attack the whole thing and completely confuse their dogs. It's a 'D' but why not.

Learning Agility with your Dog should be a guided adventure with safety in mind,. but the major outcome has to be fun and enjoyment for Dog and Handler, can't go past Flygility for that.

JANUARY 2017.

New rules.

The NZKC Agility committee is bringing in some new rules and the ones that will apply to NALA are:-

1. Up-contacts on A-frames will NOT be judged.
2. Wing jumps may be stabilised but not pegged.
3. Collapsible tunnel 5m rule

NALA Rules that will not change are:-

1. No penalties in the weave but you do have to correctly negotiate the weave. (Except for touching the dog – you cant make the dog weave by pushing it through the poles!!)
